Mr. Washington, June 20, 1809.

Sir,

I have received your letter of the 15th accompanied by a statement of the books on a trunk of books referred to Mr. Gibbon. It does not affect the information required, as four volumes only of the books belonged to me. There is a Goldsmith, History of Greece, 2 vol. 300.
The Spirit of Nations, 3 vol. 400.

Pepys' Diary, 1 vol. 500.

If you can say what was the valuation of the above volumes, I shall, on the amount of the same, you will inform me.

With respect, yours,

W. Smith.

Dear Sir,

When my arrival at home on Saturday I was informed that Mr. Edward C. Davis had gone off under circumstances which induced many to believe him lost. I had a conversation with Mr. Edward C. Davis yesterday on the subject of your remaining machinery. He is of the opinion we the hands are busily at work at it, that he has not been troubled with remonstrance for necessary materials for finishing it, & that if they can be got at the shop forment there, which he does not doubt, the Machinry for you will be finished in two or three weeks, as promised. My oblige defends I believe upon getting the balance of the money coming from you upon the delivery of the balance of this machine, leaves on being indebted to him, so he in sum will be that he has advanced it well and may money to keep the shop going before it is finished. He wishes to know if you will be willing to receive your for it in three weeks hence. It would be wise if you to keep Mr. Lovering a line upon this subject.

Yours, R. Rumble

Sir,

No appointment can be made by the Dept. with an understanding that it should be relinquished at a certain time, in favor of another person, but that the individual alluded to in your letter of the 14th last month, it would not prevent his reappointment, on the occurrence of a vacancy at any future period.

The Ohio man appeared on the Supreme bench in 1829, when President Jackson appointed John McLean. He was born in New Jersey in 1785. His father went West in 1789. Young McLean managed to secure a good education and study law. He was successful in his practice, and in 1812 was elected to Congress and again in 1814. He supported Madison, and originated the law to reimburse individuals for the loss of property in the public service. He also introduced an inquiry as to pensioning the widows of fallen officers and soldiers. Declining an election to the United States Senate in 1815, the next year he was elected Justice of the Supreme Court, holding it till 1822, when Monroe made him Commissioner of the General Land Office. The next year he became Postmaster General, not then a Cabinet office, retained through Adams' administration, and was invited to remain by Jackson, but declined because he differed with the President on the subject of appointments and removals. Jackson then offered him the War and Navy Department in succession, and on his declining appointed him on the Supreme bench. He was one of the most eminent Justices of his time. His charges to grand juries were noted for eloquence and ability. In December, 1839, he delivered a charge regarding aiding and abetting "unlawful military combinations by our citizens against any foreign government with whom we see at peace," with special reference to the Canadian insurrection and its American abetters. The most celebrated of his opinions was the one in which he dissented from the decision of the Court as rendered by Chief Justice Taney in the Dred Scott case. McLean held that slavery was contrary to right and that its origin only in local law. He was long identified with the Free Soil party. In the Republican Convention at Philadelphia, in 1856, he received 190 votes, against 350 for Fremont, and in 1860 he got some votes in convention. He died in 1861.
Dear Sir,

Enclosed is a recommendation from the Ohio delegation in favor of Theodore Wells for a military commission. I have known him from his birth, he is now of seventeen years and of most active mind, very intelligent, and a highly creditable citizen. His letters were said to be the despair of the Revolution; his part in the ]red story, and a faithful soldier of the Union, you know them from history. The society has been so now great and it was relieved to know the state of Ohio, where was such a deed Elkan), and account of their debates. It was thus that much of the society. The President naturally knew then, and I would not need to add.

Yours with esteem,

At Huntington, December 13, 1845,

The will of my dear and only child, Jane, has been seen in the morning. My daughter, Daniel, on her return from her journey, came into my little office, with a parcel in her hand, containing what it was and thereto. I ran as soon as possible to the house where the letter, containing the name of the young lady, was seen. It was my own. She was accompanied by her young lady only a few days since. She went on with a cool head, point by point, as I read. The last word, I may say, was with her cool head. I cannot say much about the young lady, nor shall I say anything more about her. I am, however, not entirely satisfied with the letter, and I am glad to hear that she is well. I cannot say much about the young lady, nor shall I say anything more about her. New Orleans
Dear Sir,

Sept. 23d. 1828.

In reply to your letter of the 17th instant, they have to say—That after enquiry, I understand Mr. Wm. W. Greenman, when their motion, with the object of the plaintiff's counsel, were made in plaintiff's suit, against you, in the suit for the settlement of the account, the parties of Messrs. Kendall & Buckley's ready interest, of course, no payment, discharge or offset, in Messrs. Kendall's help to notice of the agreement to those parties, would avail you; but all the evidence I have is to amount to, liable to you, for damages on the said note, in your letter, yet I do not think that would be used as an offset, being a claim for unliquidated damages. For a writing.

As to the other case, I made an attempt to bring Boardman & Jones well represented their before the court, was to subject them to the decree in this case, if any were to be rendered, but the Chancellor overruled the application.
I incline however to think, that it is exceptive, for you know, by an original lease, to get a decree against them, for a specific performance of the covenant, to indemnify, the only difficulty is, that there is no legal ease against you; at law a cent cannot be brought upon an indemnifying lease, till after judgment, or the lease; and there are cases in which very little seems to have to convey some idea, that in equity, a bill may be filed, as soon as the party is sued.
the Chancellor intimated the same idea, if you wish it, I will proceed to see the names of the representatives of Mr. C. & Mr. W. that is, their executor or administrator respectively, I will instruct a cent against them.
Yours respectfully

J.P. [Signature]
I understand there is some measure for lally U.S. at Mr. Allen's. The rest of the last division of estates going in connection to the adjacent counties of Mr. A.K. Storer lands, to try the remaining Spanish and French titles, stands up a State of Castro.

Nevy requesting that the U.S. should be represented by a title lawyer of the first class or so. The Shenandoah Master. Widow de Claims will be all necessarily to before the courts.
As the Shenandoah claim is not finally decided, it is seen of the S. C. U.S.

I merely bring this fact to your mind, so you can present the land department in the Cabinet.

With high respect,
Mr. E. V. Walker,
Very Sincerely,

My dear S[ronte]... Grant & Brothers,

Gentlemen,

I have 2 reasons of the 3rd last this morning, there to inform you that the general court, did not by any chance, meet at the last term which ended on Saturday last, consequently your suit with Brasham was not tried.

Sunday is more than he has been for a long time, but has some prospect of rising again. A bill is now before the legislature to incorporate Sanders, etc. darling he grants the privilege of Banking to that company, which it is thought will help, but it should be Sanders will be in blast again. I am just about to start to visit all the places to purchase land at the sale, which are to take place on July 14th. Any business in my absence will be attended to by Mr. Thorne. If I should later to it you will please to address your letters to me in your business. I am in any difficulty shall have to come with respect to the Bill which you were so kind as to take in the last post. I have yours for the funds, I have been by the Bill in England as I gave a premium for it, but that's a matter of no importance. I am sure I should have done any thing in this on the subject, had I not been informed that... the Bill for $1800 in favor of Marshall & Co. for transportation of potatoes and was in possession which could show an additional 80 acres. However, as the Bill is now in perfectly satisfactory. Accepting your favor,

Sir,

Receiving that vacancies have recently occurred in the Office of Purser in the Navy, I would recommend to the notice of the President or to the proper Department, in the fair course of promotion, Mr. Harrison Hough, now assistant Purser, and at present I am informed, on duty in the Pacific. This gentleman is the son of Mr. George Le Hough, formerly of Alexandria, now of Baltimore. For his standing and intelligence for his experience in the duties of his station, for every qualification which should recommend him to the confidence of the government, I think I can safely answer;

very respectfully,

President Tyler.

I have to thank you for a copy of your new edition of Adam's treatise on Equity, with American notes. The character of the work is well established, as is proved by a demand for a second edition in this country, whose value is much increased by the labor of its American editors.

Dear Sir,

It would have given me great pleasure to go to Canada in your company. I have hardly ventured it above, though there are many things there I want to see. I regret also your confinement to your duties through the summer, which I hope you can alternate as far as possible by social recreation, though we might have the pleasure of another trip.

I shall go on throughout the summer working on my book more or less, I'm looking at farming etc. It is a kind of life which suits me well for the summer. I in the autumn I expect to come out as far as a Darboin writes from a good fortune. It is very quick, but I cannot exchange its report for the budding of the bud in Boston, with great reluctance. I am far enough away from the latter to look on the rising steam with great sympathy, to which I live long enough to see many such people as Charles Parker & Charles Sumner disappear altogether in vapor. I suppose they are according to the course of nature, as much so as the mists which are now streaming up from the swamps below me. These are under the steady light of the sun. I demand the presence of the President to make sure of my position, for I have heard him speak,

Which have stood so in great stead in this place of few resources. I desire to hear attendance to my request. When you are in "the office" if you remember it, I will thank you to make a formal demand.

We are all very well. I have taken leave from heat & 82° is the highest the thermometer has been in one half — the nights too warm, but not really bad. Yesterday Sunday some thunder was the worst morning but fine showers in the afternoon w a glorious evening.

Please give my love to Kate.
